

Patrick Staton
3418 Landrum Dr. SE, Smyrna, GA 30082
304-888-2595
patrick.t.staton@gmail.com

Objective: Driven to secure a bartender position where I can cultivate my bartending/mixology skills while providing exceptional customer experiences, ensuring patrons enjoy memorable and satisfying beverages.

Education:

Atlanta Professional Bartender School
February 2025

Certification in Mixology/Bartending
Certification in Vino 101 and Pairing
Certification in Beer and Spirit

George Mason University, Fairfax, VA
May 2016
Earth Systems Science, M.S.

Work Experience:

The Weather Channel January 2022 - Present

Weather Product Engineer

- Develop and implement automated processes for product workflows
- Website/app construction and maintain visual graphics for on-air shows
- Collaborate with cross-functional teams to deliver projects

The University of Alabama in Huntsville January 2017 - December 2021

Research Associate II

- Developed defense technologies using meteorological expertise and Python
- Created defense simulations and visualizations from weather and geospatial data
- Engineered software in a secure microservice environment with 3D modeling

Skills:

Highly efficient and customer-focused individual with exceptional communication and multitasking skills. Proven ability to thrive in fast-paced environments, demonstrated by preparing 26 drinks in 8 minutes. A reliable team player with a strong attention to detail and a commitment to providing outstanding service. Possesses excellent critical thinking and problem-solving abilities, ensuring prompt and accurate service. Eager to contribute to a positive and memorable customer experience.

Professional References:

Silvia SanMartin, Placement Director at Professional Bartending School, 404-321-0390

Matt Jones, Senior Weather Producer, 678-350-6432

Mike Chesterfield, VP Weather Presentation & Data Visualization, 630-803-8878

Drink Portfolio: <https://www.instagram.com/cruxcocktails/>